

Christ Powered Revival (CPR)

“And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh.”
— Ezekiel 36:26

Last year, we focused on being “All In,” a call to stop living with lukewarm faith and instead pursue God wholeheartedly. But as we press on, we recognize that our commitment alone is not sufficient. We need spiritual transformation, something that only God can bring about. As The Bible demonstrates, there is no greater transformation than going from death to life.

This year’s theme, Christ Powered Revival (CPR), is a prayer for that transformation. We aspire to see personal revival that starts not through our own efforts, but through our trust in the unchanging truths about His nature— in which He desires to save us, sustain us, and perfect our faith. We long to see a softening of hearts, a stirring of Spirit-led passion, and a renewal of our identity as God’s people, knowing that He desires the same and will move among us as He always does.

From Heart of Stone...

Before revival comes, we must first confront the reality of our heart condition, which is one of barrenness and death.

A heart of stone is marked by (Romans 1:21, 32):

- Obstinacy in changing from sin
- Rejection of God’s guidance
- Spiritual apathy and distance from God
- A life not centred on Christ

“You were dead in the trespasses and sins in which you once walked...”
— Ephesians 2:1–3

We all start here. Through our sinful nature and a love for the passions of the world, our hearts become hardened. We must reckon with the reality that all of us harbour hardness in our hearts. As a group of Christ followers in the middle of a secular student body, it is our duty to grieve the state of our peers and to be a force of spiritual liberation on our campus.

“...these people draw near with their mouth and honour me with their lips, while their hearts are far from me...”
— Isaiah 29:13

These passages are also a reminder for those within UTCCF; even as a Christian fellowship, it's easy to spiritually coast, become stagnant, fall into worldly passions, and excuse the hardness within us. CPR is a wake-up call; no matter where we are in our walks of faith, we need Christ to revive and refine us.

...To Heart of Flesh

“Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation. The old has passed away; behold, the new has come.”
— 2 Corinthians 5:17

By His grace, God promises to be our surgeon; to take out the dead, unfeeling heart of stone and replace it with a heart of flesh – one that is alive, soft, and responsive to Him.

But resuscitation is not always gentle. In medical emergencies, CPR involves broken ribs and electric shocks to bring someone from death to life. In the same way, we expect and embrace the spiritual discomfort that accompanies God's transforming work in us.

“For the Lord disciplines the one he loves... For the moment, all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant, but later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.”
— Hebrews 12:6, 11

A heart of flesh is:

- Self-denying and fully surrendered to God
- Inclined toward His will
- Excitedly seeking a deeper relationship with Him
- Obedient to His Word

“And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes...”
— Ezekiel 36:27

We want this kind of heart because it is the way we were originally created to be. A heart of flesh draws us into a closeness with God, surrendering to His will and Word with eager anticipation for the eternal life we've been promised. Another way the bible describes this change in heart posture is “becoming like little children” who have a fully trusting, joyful, and unpretentious view of the Father that can appreciate Him in ways “hidden from the wise and learned” (Matthew 18:3; Matthew 11:25). This uncomplicated but transformative view of Jesus is exactly what we hope to see. A community of students not simply informed about God, but transformed by Him from the inside out. For non-believing students, our hope is for them to see the truth and freedom found in the Gospel and place their faith in Jesus Christ. For those who have already chosen to follow Christ, we want to encourage a perpetual awe for the Holy Spirit’s movements and a continual devotion to practicing the way of Jesus.

Having gone from stone to flesh, our renewed hearts now possess and serve a vital purpose. Just as the heart actively delivers blood to all areas of the body nonstop, we want to see CPR manifested in every area of our fellowship:

- Fellowship – Not just social time, but Spirit-led, truth-speaking, sin-confessing community. Intentional growth, mentorship, and spiritual formation (Acts 2)
- Worship – Wholehearted praise and reverence, not just performance (Psalm 51:15-17)
- Outreach – Boldness in living out and sharing the gospel (Matthew 28:18-20, Hebrews 11)
- Prayer – Dependence on God as our first instinct, desire to communicate with God throughout the day in things big and small, replacing performative and mindless prayer with authentic dialogue. (1 Thessalonians 5:17)

These elements all speak to a more general heart posture of spiritual submission, which serves as fertile soil for God to do as He pleases. Although this may look different person to person, by leaning into this, we hope to experience an unmatched spiritual vibrancy within our fellowship. In season, we hope to exhibit the fruit of our transformation, a robust zeal for God, delight in His word and ways, a readiness to confess, repent, and obey, and unmistakable evidence of the fruit of the Spirit.

“I will give them a heart to know that I am the Lord, and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.”

— Jeremiah 24:7
